1	LL	12.05.1888	Marshall	EUDORA.—On May 9 a sailing ship was launched from the shipbuilding yard of Alexander Stephen and Sons, Dundee. The vessel, which has been built for the Messrs. Stephen themselves, is of steel, and her dimensions are—Length 280 feet, breadth (moulded) 40 feet 3 inches, and depth (moulded) 25 feet 2 inches. Her gross tonnage is about 1,976, and she will carry four masts. She has been fitted with all the latest improvements for embarking and discharging cargo, and the accommodation provided for the captain, officers, and crew is very commodious. On leaving the ways the vessel was christened Eudora by Miss Mary Stephen. Captain Marshall, late of the Glenogle, has been appointed to the command of the Eudora, which will be employed in Australian and general trading.

	DA	29.03.1897	Ogilvie	Two large sailing vessels—the Eudora, of Dundee, and the Narcissus, of Greenock—have just arrived at Liverpool after voyages of a remarkable character. The vessels sighted each other in the South Pacific on the 8th December, and from that date until Thursday last [27.], when both were docked Liverpool, their progress may he described as literally neck-and-neck. The following is the report supplied by Captain Curd, master of the Narcissus, owned by Mr C.S. Caird. of Greenock: “On the Bth December, in about two south of the line, in the Pacific, fell in with the ship Eudora ’and on the Saturday in each successive week she was in company till we got down to Cape Horn, when we parted company, the Eudora being rather the better of the two during the' heavy weather. Neither sighted the other till their arrival in Falmouth, where the Narcissus arrived about 12 hours before the Eudora. The Narcissus left Falmouth two hours before the Eudora, both bound to Liverpool, saw each other off the Longships, and then had a very thick fog all the way up Channel. Off the Skerries the fog lifted, and then the Eudora was sighted. The Narcissus arrived in Liverpool two hours before the Eudora, both docking in. the East Waterloo Dock by the same tide.”

	AJ	16.02.1917		The British full-rigged ship EUDORA was reported yesterday to have been sunk [on Feb 14]. Captain Lacey and 11 members of the crew of the London steamer AZUL, which was torpedoed and sunk on the 7th inst, have been landed. A second boat containing the chief officer and 14 men is missing. When the AZUL was torpedoed the crew took to the boats, and were picked up by the sailing ship EUDORA of Liverpool. They were seven days on board the EUDORA when the latter was torpedoed, and the double crews were obliged to taken to the boats. At night the boat containing the chief officer and 14 men of the AZUL got separated from the other boats and is missing. The EUDORA had a crew of 26 men, of whom one was drowned and another injured. The men were in two boats for four hours before being picked up. The survivors of the AZUL suffered considerable privations.
